A wide-angle photograph capturing three polar bears standing on a vast, broken field of sea ice under a clear blue sky. The ice is composed of numerous large, white, irregularly shaped floes of varying sizes, some with dark, blueish-green meltwater pools. The bears are positioned in the center-right, with one bear standing prominently in the middle ground and two others partially visible to its left and right. The horizon is flat, emphasizing the expanse of the icy landscape.
